Tea Tray quickly got to the fore in his blinders, betokening the rogue he is known for, and held it clear around into the straight. When they were in the middle of the homestretch shouts of "Prince Royal" "Fire Royal" "Sir Dixon" ran the Royal" "Prince Royal" "Sir Dixoni" run the length of the grand stand. These leaders made a splendid dnish, coming past the judges' stand so that nine out of ten of the spectators on the grand stand right over the judges' stand loudly hissed the judges' decision in favor of Sir Dixon. Prince Royal was beaten by the shortest of uoses, if at all. Mutuels paid $8.75 for Dwyer Brothers' entry.

COMMITTED TO THE LAWYERS EX-ALDERMAN KERR'S CASE IN THE

TRANSIT FROM WITNESS TO JUROR.

Congressman Cockran Takes the Three-Hour Allotment for Summing Up-He Also Takes Occasion to Scartfy Fullgraff and Read the District-Attorney Lesson on Contaminating the Skirts of

The Kerr jurymen wore smiling faces as they filed into Oyer and Terminer, this morn-Whether it was that Capt. "Billy Ricketts had been unusually successful in banishing the rigors of their forced confinement, or that they felt this to be the last day of their separation from home and friends they looked unusually alert and cheerful,

The promise of a whole day's flow of oratory drew a large crowd to the court-room. For the first time in the trial the keenest in-terest was shown in the proceedings, and not a vacant seat was to be seen. Ladies were present in force, many of them carrying dowers.

present in force, many of them carrying flowers.

The gray-haired and military-looking defendant had dressed himself with unusual care in a black suit, with snowy white scarf and diamond pin.

Judge Patterson stated that counsel for each side would be limited to three hours.

Hon. Bourke Cockran, for the defense, first wheedled the jurymen on the subject of their intelligence, then told the old, tiresome story of the Broadway surface road and the bribery, and finally came to the character of his client, and to enlarge upon the defiance of justice which it would be "to convict that man of blameless and stainless life of a crime of the greatest magnitude, upon the ridiculous theory that he was the purchaser and owner of the franchise."

Informer fullgraff was treated to a does of nitude, upon the ridiculous theory that he was the purchaser and owner of the franchise."

Informer Fullgraff was treated to a dose of oratorical contempt and District-Attorney Fellows was accused of contaminating the skirts of Justice by protecting and having dealings with such a wretch.

The case for the prosecution, Mr. Cockran said, was a lamentable failure. They had come forward with a few disconnected scraps of evidence of a conspiracy, but their case had fizzled out without producing one scintilla of proof that Thomas B, Kerr had any part in that conspiracy.

On the words of Jachne, on the testimony of Perjurer Fullgraff, on the wild conjectures of ignorant men, they were asked to reject the evidence of Kerr's honorary career of fifty years and doom him to a felon's cell.

'I do not ask for clemency," he said. '1 ask only for so much justice and fair play as you would use before strangling a dog."

In contravention of the argument that Kerr's refusal to receive certified checks in payment for the $500,000 of Broadway bonds was suspicious. Mr. Cockran urged the panicky state of the money market in July, 1884. Even Government bonds had sunk 7 per cent. below par, and Kerr, deeming even the best banks unsafe, took the half million in $1,000 gold certificates, and put the money in the granting of the franchise Mr. Cockran found that there was no room for even a suspicion of bribery against his client, and that nothing worthy of the name of truth had been adduced which ought even to place him on his defense.

With a glowing and eloquent peroration Mr. Cockran brought his speech to a class at

The Supreme Court Decides that the Members Must Get Back Their Subscriptions.

Judge Ingraham has just rendered a decision in regard to the $12,000 belonging to the Police Relief Fund, which was tormed the Police Relief Fund, which was formed by monthly contributions by members of the uniformed police, and which was pronounced illegal two years ago.

Much confusion arose as to how this fund should be disbursed, the subscriber claiming that the exact amount paid should be returned to each, while a few members having claims for relief put in demands for lump sums varying from $500 to $1,200.

The Supreme Court decision is that the existence of the fund having been terminated by act of law, the beneficiaries have no claim for the amounts which would have accrued to them had it continued as proposed. The Judge directs that each member shall receive back the amount of his original contribution.

FISK WILL BE THE NOMINEE.

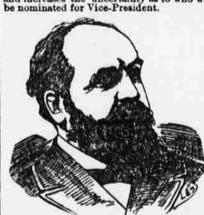

Prohibitionists at Indianapolis Think He is the Man for President. [SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.] Indianapolis, May 81.—The Committee on Platform of the Prohibition party has been having a sorry time of 10 and is still at vari ance on some of the leading issues.

So many resolutions have been referred to it that a Sub-Committee on Codification has been designated, including Prof. H. Hopkins, New York; Judge Black, Pennsy.vania; J. B. Cronfill, Texas; Geo. W. Armistead, Tennessee; Miss Frances Willard, Illinois; Mrs. Mary T. Lathrop, Michigan, and Judge Grace, Arkansas.

After protracted arguments the committee voted to indorse temale suffrage. Sam After protracted arguments the committee voted to indores ismall suffrage. Sam Small. Secretary of the committee, says that the platform will be the statement in fact, instead of the argument in favor of an issue. It is probable that the declaration will be in favor of woman's right to suffrage, with an educational qualification, and the relegation of legislation on the subject to the several States.

eral States.
It is almost a certainty that Gen. Fisk will be nominated for first place on the ticket, and increases the uncertainty as to who will be nominated for Vice-President.

John P. St. John, Sam Small, George W. Bain, of Kentucky; Frances Willard, Col. David S. Trunbull, of Kentucky, who was a delegate to the State Democratic Convention which nominated Buckner for Governor; I. O. Pickering, of Kansas, who was a Blaine and Logan elector in 1884; Neal Dow, of Maine; Samuel Dickie, of Michigan; J. B. Cranfill, of Toxas; Walker T. Mills, of Ohio, and Mather Stewart, of Ohio, are among the lights that are shining on the convention. There is but a single apprehension of trouble in forming the platform, and that lies in the demand of the Equal Suffragists that a plank favoring their cause be put in the convention's platform. The convention, upon meeting to-day, was precipitated into preliminary discussion of the suffrage question.

The Committee on Rules presented a report which included a provision for five-minute speeches upon any given question.

This was attacked by Miller, of Ohio; Bascom, of Massachusetts, and others, on the ground that it would throttle discussion on the suffrage question.

The convention, evidently by an overwhelming sentiment, was ready for the question and the rule was adopted.

The order of the day adopted provides for the nomination for President and Vice-President as the last thing of the day.

The convention spent two hours in raising a campaign fund. Over $30,000 was subscribed. The delegates are loath to leave this subject, and little progress in the business proper of the convention has been made. It is reported, apparently on good authority, that Green Clay Smith, of Kentucky, will withdraw his name.

Dr. Bool, of New York, says the New York delegation is for Fisk and Smith, and that in case of Smith's withdrawal Tanner, of Alabama; Leavering, of Maryland, or some other Southern man.

George W. Baine, of Kentucky is believed to be out of the race. The platform committee is still wrestling with the resolutions.

The convention will not conclude until tomorrow or Saturday. The number of votes in the convention is 1,046; attendance, 5,000, 4 P. the event, there was no mistake of gender, and that boy will be christened Wilhelm Otto Farragut Wortmann.

The Evenno World promptly despatched a messenger bearing congratulations to the proud parents; but papa was out and mamma was "not at home."

The house was by no means deserted, however, for neighbors of the gentler sex, bubling with suppressed excitement and beaming with importance, greeted the reporter, and when he asked: "Is Mr. Wortmann in?" an elderly woman, her face all wrinkled with smiles, made response.

"No." she said. "but his wife had a little boy last night," and the eager node of the others proved their appreciation of the wondrous fact.

"We didn't weigh him," continued the motherly old lady, "and he's grown since then, you see," and he did see, for at that moment there came from out an inner room a young woman bearing Farragut all wrapped up, not in the conventional red, but in white fiannels.

The infant here was subjected to the reporter's gaze, but, concerning his looks, all that can be safely said is that Otto is, thus far, a decided blonde.

"Why is he named Farragut?" repeated the mistress of ceremonies.

"Why is was Memorial Day, and his father was going to parade with the Mayor and things, you know, and she being sick, of course, made him late, and when he teld his Captain, or the Mayor, or the President about it, one of them, I forget which, said to call him Farragut."

Right here she turned about and breathlessly but triumphantly caught the luckless babe to her broad breast and squeezed him so hard that the poor thing, though brave, did cry just a little.

At 4. N. the Glants thou their positions in the field, and Weldman pitched the three balls called for by the rules across the plats.

At 4. 10 the Smoky City aggregation had not made their appearance, and Umpire Decker declared the game forfeited to New York.

The following is an extract from League rule 6.

"The umpire shall suspend play only in case the rain falls so heavily that the speciators are compelled to seek shelter. In which case he shall note the time of suspension, and should such rain continue to rain thirty minutes thereafter he shall terminate the game."

Rule 44 says the captain of the home cinh "shall be the sole judge of the fitness of the ground for beginning a game after rain."

In order to entertain the hendred or so specialors who were on the grounds the Glants divided into two nines and played a practice game. It was a good-natured buriesque on the regular order of things, and cristed much amusement.

Jim O'Rourke was umpire.

The nines were composed as follows:

THE GEORGES.—George, p.; Murphy, c.; Cranalist b.; Titcomb, 2d b.; Cleveland, 3d b.; Ewing.

E. E.; Lynch, L. f.; Keefe, o. f.; Welch, L. f.

WHISPERS OF CROOKEDNESS. onisville Players Said to be Playing of

Oust Manager Kelly. [SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.]

LOUISVILLE, May 31.—The miserable showing of the Louisville Club on its Eastern trip, and especially its stupidity in dropping four games atrachs o Brooklyn have caused whisperings of crooked ness to be made against the players.

No specified or formal accusation has been made, but a combination is said to exist among certain of the players to oust Manager Keily; that they are purposely throwing games, and will continue to do so as long as he is in charge.

President Lyors was seen by TER EVENDER WORLD correspondent this atternoon. He admit ted that the matter had an ugy look; that the continuous loss of games was the result of other than mere ill-luck; still he was not fully convinced that the charges, if such they might be termed, were true. There would be some radical changes meda, however, and made immediately, and if the gateeral playing old not improve an investigation would follow, with a dose of the black list administered. Kelly was perfectly anterfactory to the directors as a manager and he didn't propose to lot the whims of any player interfere with the management or conduct of the club. the players to oust Manager Kelly; that they are Wet Grounds Elsewhere. The grounds at Washington to-day were affort, and the Calcago game was postponed.

The same conditions prevented Detroit from playing in Philadelphia.

At Baltimore the Louisvilles were to have played a game, but the grounds were too wet.
